Administrative History:

Vickie Jensen is a writer, photographer, and editor who has worked with and written about Aboriginal culture and people for more than 30 years. With her husband Jay Powell, she has produced 30-40 schoolbooks in a variety of Aboriginal languages and co-written Quileute: An Introduction to the Indians of LaPush (1976). Jensen also chronicled the carving and raising of a totem pole designed by Nisga'a carver Norman Tait for the Native Education Centre in Where The People Gather: Carving A Totem Pole (1992). The title was derived from the name of the totem, Wil Sayt Bakwhlgat, meaning 'the place where the people gather.' Her collaboration with a Nisga'a totem pole carving crew was repackaged and republished in paperback as Totem Pole Carving: Bringing a Log to Life (2004). It also resulted in a children's book Carving a Totem Pole (1994). Jensen later wrote and published The Totem Poles of Stanley Park (2004). Jensen and Powell designed and wrote the CD Rom project Nagwa'am for U'Mista Cultural Society (2001).

As the editor of Westcoast Mariner magazine, Jensen travelled on coastal tugs, charter yachts, dredges, ferries and water taxis for nearly four years, interviewing skippers, crews and owners about maritime work. She is the author of Saltwater Women at Work (1995) and a student guide, Working These Waters (1996). She is also the co-author of several maritime niche books including Build Your Own Underwater Robot and Other Wet Projects (1997) and Build Your Own Programmable Lego Submersible (1998), both of which she self-published. With T.A. McLaren, she recalled the coastal history of his family's Allied Shipbuilders Ltd. with Ships of Steel: A British Columbia Shipbuilder's Story (2000).

Scope and Content:

The records in this fonds relate to Jensen's research for the book Saltwater Women at Work. She began her research in 1993, interviewing 110 women who had all earned their living working on boats or ships in British Columbia. These women worked on vessels of all types: deep sea ships and coastal freighters, charter yachts, fish boats, ferries, Coast Guard and DFO vessels, tugboats and water taxis. The women held positions that included deckhands and skippers, oilers and engineers, mates and radio operators, cooks and marine instructors. The women worked the marine waterways throughout British Columbia, from the Queen Charlottes and Prince Rupert in the north, to Rainy Bay on the west coast, and the Lower Mainland to the south. As an outcome of her interviews, Jensen decided to broaden the focus of the project from a look at interesting individuals to include the role and impact of maritime women both in BC and nationally.

Vickie Jensen Fonds

Records are divided into the following series:

- 1.0 Interview transcripts
 - 1.1 Worked on fishing boats
 - 1.2 Worked on non-fishing boats
- 2.0 Photographs and negatives
- 3.0 Interview tapes

Records in the fonds consist of interview cassette tapes and corresponding transcripts, and photographs taken by Jensen for use in the book.

Series Descriptions

Series 1.0: Interview transcripts

Dates of Creation: 1992-1995

Physical Extent: 0.50 m of textual records

Scope and Content:

Series consists of interview transcripts used by Vickie Jensen to write Saltwater Women at Work. The records are divided into 2 sub-series which corresponds to the way that the book was organized:

- 1.1 Worked on fishing boats (1992-1995)
- 1.2 Worked on non-fishing boats (1993-1995)

Sub-series 1.1 are interviews with women who primarily worked fish boats while sub-series 1.2 are with women who worked non-fish boats (ferries, tugs, water taxis, charter boats, deep sea, Coast Guard). As Jensen notes, these categories are not hard and fast as many women started off in fish boats then switched to other vessels.

Within the two series, the files are organized alphabetically by last name. Some of the transcript files contain other stories that Jensen wrote about the women in addition to what was included in the book. According to Jensen, the people who transcribed the tapes were not familiar with maritime place names and maritime terms, so occasionally, a name such as "Race Rocks" was transcribed as "Ray's Rocks".

After the interviews were transcribed, each woman had the opportunity to proofread her own story.

Series 2.0: Photographs and negatives

Dates of Creation: 1993-1995

Physical Extent: 55 sheets of contact prints graphic images; 59 sheets of 35 mm. photographic negatives; 11 slides

Scope and Content:

Series consists of photographic contact sheets, negatives, and slides related to research for the book Saltwater Women at Work. Most of the photographs were taken by Vickie Jensen when she interviewed the women but aprox. 1/3 of the images are copies she made of photographs supplied by the women who were interviewed. Most of the contact sheets are identified on verso.

Vickie Jensen Fonds

Series 3.0: Interview tapes

Dates of Creation: 1993-1995

Physical Extent: 128 cassette tapes

Scope and Content:

Series consists of interviews that were recorded and made by Jensen for the book Saltwater Women at Work. Most interviews are 1 cassette tape in length, however, some run to 2 cassette tapes. Occasionally two women are included (i.e. mother and daughter) on 1 cassette tape. Interview times were generally 1-2 hours.

All women who were interviewed were included in the book with the exception of 1 woman who later declined (this tape is not included with the above research materials). The quality of the tapes varies significantly based on the location of the interview (i.e. recorded on a boat or in a noisy surrounding).

Notes:

Finding aids: The cassette tapes have been described at the item level.
